TWO WOOD ALCOHOL VICTIMS CAUGHT FIRST IN WEEKS

Janesville's first wood alcohol victims to appear in court in several months stood before Judge Maxfield today—two of them, Carl Whiteman and James Murray. After a stiff lecture by the judge they were sent back to the city lock-up until tomorrow morning when they will be sentenced, a difficulty having arisen in naming the offense with which they may be charged.

The two were arrested on West Milwaukee street by Officer Con. O'Leary early last evening. Each was badly intoxicated, police say, claiming they had been drinking wood alcohol.

"Don't you know that wood alcohol ruins your mind and is apt to make you blind?" questioned the judge today.

"I know it, judge, and my eyesight isn't very good anyway?" replied Murray in a repentant tone.

An 18-year old boy, Benjamin Pede, who comes from a small town in Michigan was arraigned on a vagrancy charge. He, too, will be brought up again tomorrow. Police say the boy has been in Janesville several weeks, and although his shoes are worn out and his clothing in bad condition he will not work.

FARMERS REFUSE TO PAY HIGH PRICES

Farm Bureau Will Go Into Business for Itself When Conditions Warrant.

Assuming the wholesale and retail do business with them so long as dealers of the county that they will prices are reasonable. The Rock County Farm Bureau has gone on record as in favor of going into business on its own account when conditions warrant. Upon this basis, the bureau has appointed a committee to confer with local dealers on prices.

"We do not want to give the idea that we are going to disregard the regularly established business houses," said R. T. Glasco today. "We will go into business with them just as ordinarily, but where we find that prices are too high, if we cannot make an arrangement with the dealer, we will go into the market and get our supplies. We have been offered a portion of their warehouse, whenever necessary, by the Rock County Tobacco Growers' association."

Plan Milk Campaign

One of the plans of the bureau is the appointment of a committee to campaign of advertising to acquaint the public with the food value of milk. Two hundred dollars has been donated to the Wisconsin Dairy council, which exists to advertise milk in the state. The other $200 will be expended for a local campaign and will be increased if possible by contributions from local middle-men.

Against Daylight Saving

Stating that daylight saving is detrimental to the farmer and that it

Janesville adopts it, the Rock county agriculturalists will do their business elsewhere in the county, the bureau has gone on record as opposed to the scheme.

Committees have been appointed by the county bureau to investigate the feasibility of procuring milk and crushing it themselves; and also to continue looking into the plan of establishing state farm loan banks.

BUSY TIME AHEAD FOR JUDGE GRIMM: 3 MORE DIVORCES

Not having lived with her husband for the past 18 years, Nettie Grimm, Beloit, filed suit in circuit court here for divorce from William J. Grimm on grounds that he has failed to provide more than $400 for her and her son in all that time. She declares that since a year after marriage in 1891 she has had to support herself.

Stating that she was severely injured recently and had to be confined to her home his wife refused to take care of him, Reuben Grimm, 53, an inspector of this city, has applied in circuit court here for divorce from Ella Bickell, 52, keeper of a rooming house at 292 Race street. He charges that she would leave him for days and weeks at a time and would go for days without speaking to him and that she became provoked at trifles. They were married in 1892 and have three children, 23, 23 and 19.

In papers praying for the breaking of her marital ties, Cora A. Swaney, 43, this city, that her husband, Walter B. Swaney, 46, Milwaukee, asked her time and again to get a divorce from him because he was a drunkard and a cold but that she has tried to make their home happy and get him to become reformed. She brings out that since their marriage in 1912, he has no-lected their social life, failed to give her happy times, and has been cruel and abusive, so that on March 20 she could stand it no longer and left him. She asserts that he constantly found fault with her and was cruel and inhuman. They have a seven year old son.

Kansas Wheat Acreage Is Far Below Last Year's Mark

Topeka, Kas., April 23.—Kansas wheat acreage is 3,356,284 acres below the record of a year ago. A dry winter also made 1,500,113 acres of growing wheat valueless, according to the report today by J. C. Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture.

This day, 53 years ago (April 23, 1837), the first United States mail arrived in the new town of Janesville. Henry F. Jones was appointed postmaster. The postoffice was in his hotel with a cigar box nailed to the log bar as a receptacle for mail. Janesville was the center of a number of post roads, and the first mail came from Mineral Point on its way to Racine.

LUMBER AND THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

From every corner of the country comes the cry for homes. It is particularly loud and emphatic from the industrial centers. Never before has man wanted so many dwellings. There are some 2,000,000 men who heretofore have been vagrants or living in and about saloons that want homes. There are other millions who want better homes than the low wage scale formerly afforded. The biggest problem of the builder has been lumber. There is no business in the United States better organized than the lumber industry, especially the manufacturing end of it. There is practically no competition so far as price is concerned. The prices of lumber have gone up in the past year amazingly. Double and treble the quotation of a year ago is not infrequent. There was little sale of lumber from the mills of Wisconsin and adjacent states in 1918 because the government was taking most of the product from the southern and Pacific coast mills. While it is true that the wages of the woodsmen and the sawmill employes have increased a hundred percent, this cannot account for the total of the increased price in lumber at the mills. The timber is being cut from the same holdings that when sawed two years ago brought no such price as is asked now. Maple flooring is three times as high as in 1918. Here is a place where the government might help. It is not the labor that counts so much in the making of a home now; it is the enormously increased first cost of the materials, lumber chiefly.

CHEWING GUM, JEWELRY AND THE MOVIES.

When the girl at the desk is chewing gum and talking of putting on overalls as a way to reduce the high cost of living she forgets that the money spent for gum chewed by the people of the United States would buy 15,140,868 pairs of overalls at $2.75 a pair. It would buy $3,274,437 gingham dresses at $5 a dress. Just waggling the jaws last year and masticating gum cost the nation $41,837,387. Quite a wad both of gum and money. Then in order to combat the high cost of living and throw the profiteering monster down and tie him, we spent $274,562,936.50 for jewelry. Not all of this was paid out by the rich or those who are capitalists, according to the definition of a capitalist by Mr. Marx. Another method we adopted to show our contempt for high cost, was to spend $507,792,458.30 on seeing shows, most of which went to the movies. We spent a billion dollars for automobiles and over a hundred million for canned music and pianos. And that was not all received from war millionaires either. The sum total of the matter is that we are spending money like a sailor on shore leave with a roll of money that irks and chafes him. And about the only time we kick is when we buy green onions and other garden vegetables due in June that we want to use in April.

ONE FOURTH OF TUBERCULAR BABIES WERE INFECTED FROM MILK.

Janesville has no milk ordinance. There is no protection for the people against tubercular herds or tubercular milk. Only the state law and the state officials have the power to make examinations. Milk, the most important food we have, is a carrier of many diseases. Deaths from tuberculosis number 290,000 yearly. The disease costs the country from $400,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 a year. There are two ways of getting the infection—from persons, and from cows. Slaughter house statistics show 10 percent of all animals killed are infected with tuberculosis. Milk from the infected cow is a dangerous source of infection, no matter whether the udder is directly infected or not. But the older person is not so liable to infection from milk. His system will combat the tubercle bacilli. But the baby is an easy victim. Bovine infection is frequent. Of babies infected, or children under 5, suffering from tuberculosis, between 20 and 25 percent come from milk. Many expert microscopists put it as high as 50 percent. In the adult man some of the leading authorities say 7 percent get the disease from milk. So there is danger always lurking in the infected milk, not only to the little babies, but to the older persons. In a bulletin of the state board of health the statement is made: "The protection of children from tubercular infection by the ovine germ contained in milk is an imperative duty."

It is quite possible for a city to exclude all milk except from tubercular tested herds. Any milk that is offered for sale in Janesville should be tested. It can be done and the amount of butter and other regulatory sections be incorporated in the same ordinance. It is quite important that the babies be protected. Infant mortality is large—too large now, and we should overlook no act that will keep the babies from preventable disease. Next to the test of the herd is pasteurization, and all milk should be so treated if there is no test made mandatory for either the one cow or a score from which the milk supply is obtained.

A CELEBRATION OF MOMENT.

The centennial celebration of the Congregational church in Janesville this week is an event of no small importance. Itinerant preachers came to the little settlement ten years before the establishment of this church, and the Methodists had a small congregation meeting as early as 1831. "The groves were God's first temples," wrote William Cullen Bryant, and here the first meeting place in Janesville was under the oak trees in the grove near where the court house now stands. It was in 1844 that the churches began to show real life. In the spring of that year came the Rev. C. H. A. Bulkeley, and in February, 1845, he organized the First Congregational church with 13 members. Trinity church was organized by the Episcopalians, September 18, 1844. The First Baptist church congregation was founded with 13 members October 13, 1844, with no apparent fear of the "13". It was 1850 before a parish of the Catholic church was erected. The Universalist church had a congregation in Janesville in 1845. Presbyterians were later, entering with a church organized in 1855. In that year Janesville had 7,018 population.

ABOUT MILK PRICES.

Two things stand out very clearly in the milk price controversy now going on between the distributors and the Farm Bureau.

First: Milk can be bought and is being bought at wholesale cheaper now than in March, yet it sells at the same price.

Second: The cities of the average population of Janesville in the state are not paying as much for milk as Janesville.

In spite of the battle put up by the Hon. Gib Hitchcock of Nebraska, William Jennings Bryan will be a delegate to the democratic national convention, carrying his thorn branch to prod Mr. Hitchcock at any given opportunity. Mr. Bryan went in on a pledge that under no circumstances or at any time, would he vote for Mr. Hitchcock.

Here is the 22nd addition to the Horrors of Prohibition: The jail at Markesan is to be sold at auction to the highest bidder. It was frequently occupied in the days before prohibition, says a Markesan correspondent, but since then there has been no call for lodgment therein.

When the man goes home with the new overalls protesting against the high cost of everything the wife should feel at perfect liberty to set him to beating the carpets or carrying out the ashes.

With one La Follette man and 27 varieties of other candidates all opposed to the senator, there is quite a safe bet that the senator will win the governorship for the man branded with his iron.

The money spent for a pair of overalls with which to work in the garden, will do more to reduce the family cost of living than all the paradises this side of Hackensack.

Maybe those Birmingham overall wearers who originated the idea are in the cotton business. The price has steadily climbed since the craze was inaugurated.

Crowded street cars are evidences of the growth of Janesville. Soon we shall hear through the Voice of the People that the lowly strap hanger is at large.

Under the League of Nations will Wisconsin be allowed a plebiscite as to whether she wishes to continue in the United States?

There is a large circulation of $50 counterfeit bills, but this does not interest the average housewife.

When it comes to irrigation problems Cuba seems to have solved one for America.

Nebraska returns seem to show that Hi Johnson is the real Terror of the Platte.

As to Senator Wilcox

Senator Roy P. Wilcox is a candidate for the republican nomination for governor. Two years ago, Mr. Wilcox carried Portage county in the primaries by a big majority. He has lost no friends here since then, and has gained new ones. He should be stronger in the primaries than in 1918.—Wausau Record-Herald.

Mr. Wilcox represents that element of independent thinking and action which desires a change. His candidacy appeals to every citizen who wants to break away from the machines of both Philipp and La Follette, and to institute in this state government which will be less committed to the personal ambitions of office-holders, to the development of factional warfare and the building up of machines, and more given to public service in the unselfish interest of the people. This end, we believe, will be materially promoted by the nomination and election of Mr. Wilcox as governor.—Appleton Post-Crescent.

The only hope in the campaign is agreement on one man. Can the republicans who want a new deal get together for a common purpose? All these men have a right to run. Mr. Wilcox, with his vote of two years ago, certainly has the right to aspire to the governorship. But the question remains one of results. With a divided field, the issue is settled before the fight is begun. Is there enough patriotism, enough loyalty to the principle of majority rule in the republican party, for candidates and supporters to get together and agree on one man for the sake of principle?—Milwaukee Journal.

Wisconsin certainly needs a new deal. It should have had a new deal two years ago. It needs a new leaven in the republican yeast to counteract demagogic radicalism on the one hand and demagogic reaction on the other hand. In our judgment Governor Philipp has, wittingly or unwittingly, done more than any other one man to preserve the hold of La Follette on the state. And there is not much difference to the state whether the governor or Mr. La Follette is the controlling power. Their influence upon our affairs and public policies is about the same. They profess to be at loggerheads and to stand for radically opposed policies, but it nevertheless is a curious fact that each draws his support from practically the same sources. We think it would be a good thing for Wisconsin and the republican party if Governor Philipp were entirely eliminated. He has served four years longer than he ought to have served, and that is a long time for the state to be in need of a change.—Green Bay Press-Gazette.

JUST FOLKS

PATIENCE.
The world asks nothing of a man
Beyond his power to do,
He can who really thinks he can,
And this is always true.
Each in his place can reach his goal
And find expression for his soul.

Sometimes the way seems hard and long,
Sometimes the burden's great,
But he shall conquer who is strong
And has the will to wait.
And he shall come through weal and woe
Unto the peace he hopes to know.

Grief strikes us in our gayest hours,
And failures bear us down,
But these are tests to try our powers
Before we gain the crown.
All who the tests of life would wear,
First in its bitterness must share.

Great trials come to test us all,
There is no easy road,
He who has faith shall never fall
Beneath his heavy load.
For out of failure and distress
The better man builds his happiness.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

A LITTLE SLICE OF LIFE.
The other day
We were looking
For a house
Or a tant or a
Boxcar or something
To live in.
And a friend of ours
Came to us
With a proposition
To rent a house
For a hundred dollars
A month
And we went to see
The house.

When a great and untrammelled people take a strong liking for a person or an object they give that person or object a nickname. For instance, when the dollar used to pack a considerable wallop, we called it by such loving names as plunk, bluck, cartwheel, berry or bean. Nowadays we call it a nickel and a dime, though it is not a nickel, because we have so far lost respect for its efficiency in the marts of trade that we don't waste time hunting up a monicker for it. The only name it has is the one its inventor. Nobody ever thought up a nickname for a stove lid, a corn plaster, a quill toothpick or a pen wiper. Uninteresting things like these are left to go down into history by their right names.

FATAL PRODIGALITY.
In little bit she
And thoughtlessly, with lavish hand,
To every youth she tossed a part
Throughout Columbia's boundless land.

But with the feeble years there came
A man of means, good looks, unweid;
"To you I'll give my wealth, my name,
And heart—and ask but yours," he said.

The fragments of her heart she tried
To find in wildest haste, poor maid;
But that which she hunted for, and wide,
The bits were lost—she could not trade.

—Walter Pulitzer.

WHAT'D YOU HOLD, EDDIE?
Dear Roy—Here is another poker hand that may interest you:
After wild betting on the part of three players a call was finally made and A showed four aces. B showed the ace, king, joker, jack and ten of hearts, while C laid down the ace, joker, queen, jack and ten of spades. C claimed the pot because the joker fitted in higher in his local flush than it did in B's.

EDDIE PETERS.
A learned college professor has asked if there is a weaker sex. He has just asked upon his remark before, but evidence keeps coming in to the effect that there is a weaker sex. Listen: Mr. Spug Hawkins, who claims to be a burglar, has been indicted for crimes in voluntary bankruptcy, claiming that his business has been ruined on account of the fact that his wife will not allow him to go out nights. She sends him to the bedpost and does not release him until morning.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

THE "MAD MULLAH" OF POLITICS.
It was in Janesville, in the wind-up of the primary campaign of 1910, when Judge Levi Baneroff was a candidate for attorney general, that the famous phrase, "the mad mullah of Wisconsin politics," was coined.

Judge Baneroff, recently appointed judge of the 5th judicial circuit to succeed the late Judge George Clements, brought with him to his new term as speaker of the assembly and had been invited to address the Janesville Twilight club. It was "political night," and among the speakers were the late Judge Levi Baneroff, who was the first speaker and took the La Follette faction severely to task for supporting a candidate named Tucker, who had committed suicide by jumping from a cliff.

"These men are blindly following the orders of the mad mullah of Wisconsin politics," Robert M. La Follette, stated Mr. Baneroff. Press dispatches carried the designation and despite careful defense of Mr. Aylward, who defended Mr. Tucker's memory and also the honor of La Follette, it played an important part in that year's campaign.—Wisconsin State Journal.

Stutz has parked itself on the curb.—Arkansas Gazette.

If Babson got the Official Bulletin for nothing, Creel cheated him.—Baltimore Sun.

"Silks Become Quiet," says a newspaper headline. Not referring, of course, to hose or shirts.—Dayton News.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
April 23, 1880.—The new millinery department of the store at 202 E. D. Craig and will be opened this evening. A large crowd heard Florence Herbert and her company present "Under the Gaslight" at the opera house last night. The company will remain one week with different plays each night.—Rev. Mr. Sewell will leave soon for the east.

THIRTY YEARS AGO
April 23, 1890.—Rev. W. F. Brown gave a brief summary of the work done by the Presbyterian church last Sunday at the close of his sermon. There are now 216 active members of the church. At the beginning of the year there were that number. Thirty were added, four withdrew on letter, one died, and 25 were placed on the retired list.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
April 23, 1900.—The last report of the public library board, shows that, although Janesville has one of the largest libraries in the state, fewer books are circulated than in other libraries of the larger cities.—Rev. Robert C. Dennison and W. S. Jeffries left this morning for New York where they will attend a large conference. Ex-President Harrison gave the opening address.

TEN YEARS AGO
April 23, 1910.—Funeral services for Samuel Clements were held in New York today. A heavy snow and wind storm struck Wisconsin and Illinois yesterday. Traffic is crippled in Chicago, and although much delay is caused in this city from the drifting snow, trains are only about half an hour late. The fire alarm wires were broken, causing much confusion.

Heroes of Another Day

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington, April 23.—Nearly all of the men still living who fought to hold the United States of America together more than a quarter of a century ago will be gathered at the Arlington National cemetery when the new Memorial Amphitheater just completed there is dedicated by the Grand Army of the Republic on the fifteenth of next month.

The new amphitheater is a beautiful thing which cost nearly a million dollars, and is a valuable addition to the Arlington National cemetery. It is a structure which the nation is making in and about Washington. But of far more interest is the history of old men that they will come together many more times. All but a few of them are far past 70 now.

The fact that thousands of men are still alive who fought in the Civil war is perhaps one of the most illuminating facts which we can find about it. For it shows that boys were children in fact, were impelled to enter the struggle by emotions strong enough to carry them through it, and it shows that the cause was so important that it drew from the youngest members of the Grand Army is Brigadier General J. J. Clem, retired, who was born in 1851. In 1861 he tried to enlist as a drummer boy, but was refused. None the less, he succeeded in enlisting the next year, and in 1863 was made a private, and fought in the battles of Shiloh, Chickamauga, and many minor engagements. In other words, as a boy of 12 to 13 he took part in some of the fiercest battles of the war and stuck them out.

A Boy Soldier.
John McElroy, editor of the National Tribune and one of the leaders of the movement which created the Memorial Amphitheater, enlisted at the age of 16, fought in several battles, was taken prisoner, and spent some time in the confederate prison at Andersonville. Similar stories could be told about many if not most of these 150,000 who remain.

The amphitheater is designed for the holding of the memorial celebrations which have been held at Arlington every Memorial Day since the war. A rather significant little affair which looks like a device for drying clothes has heretofore served the purpose, and this new and dignified amphitheater is really needed.

Cleveland Refused to Speak.
At Arlington every president who has served since the war has made a memorial address upon the steps of Grover Cleveland. Cleveland is still remembered by the Grand Army men as the president who refused an invitation to speak at Arlington Memorial Day and went fishing instead. For Cleveland was what the union soldiers still refer to as a "conqueror." He did not believe in the war and he refused to fight in his place. His political strength was not among the old soldiers, to say the least of it.

An Historical Monument.
Arlington is itself one of the best monuments to the Civil war which the nation possesses. It belonged to the hero of Brown's raid, who was a member of the famous Custis family of Virginia. This beautiful pillared mansion on its windy hilltop, overlooking the river and the city, has been fought since then, they turn back to their memories and say "you cannot understand it."

Not Can We. The Civil war lives now only in the minds of these men. For it left scarcely any literature. It was a war fought by a generation without poets. "American novelists seem to think of the Civil war as something that separated lovers," remarked an astute English critic. It is a fact, too, that the men who fought the Civil war must suffer keenly if they ever read the sentimental twaddle which has been written about the war. It was a time of blood and tears. Nor have the poets and the song writers done any better. And the men who fought the war are not interested in these things. They have left us tons of reminiscences, but these record deeds, not emotions, and therefore fail to evoke the past. They make the war

SAVE THE WHISKER—IT Perspiration

Probably every species of animal, including the ape and the pig, has its characteristic odor. Neither the odor is appreciable or the feeble odor of a human or of a pig. Experts speak of rather striking odors about various savage races that go practically naked. Possibly these same savages are unaware of their own odor and poignantly aware of the peculiar odor associated with the well-bathed white man.

The chief cause of any disagreeable odor from perspiration is clothing. The best remedy for foul perspiration is cleanliness. If you cannot go entirely naked, as the Creator intended, then go as naked as you can or go naked whenever you can. Going barefoot, for instance, will cure bromidrosis (foul sweating) of the feet in a few days. Clothing containing perspiration, or decomposition or putrefactive decomposition to take place, the products of this decomposition being in part noxious. A micro-organism (bacterium) has been recognized as a probable cause of the offensive odor in some cases of perspiration. Bacteria in the pores of the skin do not suffer from this trouble, while soldiers wearing stockings and shoes often do, at least early in their military training.

Probably the most satisfactory local remedy for foul sweating is formaldehyde. This is sold in standard 40 percent solution known as formalin. It may be used for spot-dyeing or bathing any part of the skin once a day in the strength of one ounce in a pint of water. When the skin has dried after this spot-dyeing it is advisable to sprinkle it freely with finely powdered boracic acid, or of course the clothing becomes permeated with the foul perspiration and must be frequently washed. The stockings in the case of bromidrosis of the feet may be soaked in a solution of boracic acid in water and allowed to dry out. As much boracic acid as the water will dissolve should be used. X-ray treatment in skilled hands has overcome some very obstinate cases of foul sweating of the feet.

Spotting the affected skin with a solution of half a teaspoonful of potassium permanganate in a pint of water once a day for several days.

SMART IMPORTED COAT FOR SPRING

By ELOISE.

Imported clothes are advancing to a more important place with every new day. It is hard to tell just how the French boot is perhaps the most noticeable in general. Brooks, blouses, hats and wraps are also in great demand. The suit, however, is still found at its best in the hands of American tailors and manufacturers. With the coat it is a different matter. Many of the importations are irresistible.

Here is one of the newest models of Paris housewifery and the races. It may be worn as a top coat or motor coat or will find equal favor as an afternoon coat for street wear. It is a white material somewhat like a polo coat but much softer. The French coat is light in color and the long stole collar which shows to great advantage when the coat is worn open is faced with green velvet material. It is a suit of unusual style and may be developed in other colors, such as brown and tan, brown and white, purple and white, yellow and white, and red and white.

This is the Way To hit Landlord Rent Profitteers

Detroit, Mich., April 23.—A 100 percent increase in the assessed valuation of his property was the penalty which Jacob Shevitz, owner of a nine family apartment house, who was accused by his tenants of increasing their rents from $12.50 to $25 a month.

The city council has been informed of a board of review to hear complaints of tenants who charge profiteering on the part of landlords. The council had several suggestions before it but ordinances controlling rents were enacted, but decided it had no power to take such action.

Shevitz was called before the council, but refused to appear. The board of assessors was then directed by the council to re-audit his property. Shevitz was notified that he would be given a hearing by the council, should he decide to protest the increased assessment.

PUDDINGS AND SAUCES

Rhubarb Pudding—Grease a baking dish and then dust with fine bread crumbs. Now place in a mixing bowl two cups of unwashed stewed rhubarb, one and one-half cups of fine bread crumbs, one and one-half cups of brown sugar, one-half teaspoon of nutmeg, two tablespoons of melted butter, one tablespoon of baking powder. Beat to mix thoroughly and then turn into the prepared dish and bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes. Serve with butterscotch sauce.

Butterscotch Sauce—Place in a saucepan one and one-half cups of milk, one-half cup of butter, and add slowly until it forms a soft ball in cold water. Now add two tablespoons of butter, one-half teaspoon of vanilla, extract. Beat to blend and then serve.

Comestarch Pickling—Place one pint of milk in sauce pan and add one-half cup of comestarch. Stir to dissolve, bring to boil, cook slowly for 10 minutes. Now add one-half cup sugar, one well-beaten egg and one teaspoon vanilla. Beat to mix; rinse custard cups with cold water and pour in the custard. Set aside to mold.

Trifle Pudding—Put cake slices and jam in layers in glass dish. Bits of cake or dry cakes may be used. Two tablespoons lemon juice and two tablespoons of water, cooked with one tablespoon sugar and poured over is the secret of the flavor obtained.

One egg beaten and one cup of milk cooked together until a thick custard is made, but do not boil, pour over the cake lemon juice in dish and set aside to cool. Serve cool and decorate with cherries or strawberries from the jam pot. Put about one tablespoon of sugar in the custard to avoid a flat taste.

SANDWICHES

Hot Sandwiches—Slice hard boiled eggs or chop fine, season with a peanut butter salad dressing; spread on lettuce leaves and lay between slices of bread buttered and toasted.

Club Sandwiches—Butter hot toast well; arrange half the slices on a large platter; put a lettuce leaf on each and lay on a slice of chicken or French dressing covered with mustard; then cover with pieces of two or three kinds of meat—cold roast beef, chicken, steak, and a piece of freshly fried bacon, or cold sliced tongue and fresh fried ham. Add a slice of cucumber or green tomato, and white, yellow and red. Arrange slices of toast and garnish with lettuce and olives.

Keep as warm as possible. Fine for luncheons.

Sweet Corn Soup—Soak one-half cup sweet corn over night, cook until soft. Heat fat in double boiler; rub together one tablespoon fat and one and one-half tablespoons flour. Add a little hot milk to make smooth, and stir into milk. Mash corn and strain into milk. Serve hot.

Nut and Cheese Sauce—Two cups fine bread crumbs, one cup ground walnut meat, one cup grated cheese, one cup milk, three-quarters cup spoon salt, one-half cup brown paper, few grains cayenne, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one tablespoon finely chopped onion, one egg slightly beaten.

Mix ingredients in order given, shape in a cake pan, turn out on a baking pan and bake 25 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

TASTY DESSERTS
Blackberry Pudding—Pour off juice from one can blackberries, add water to make one pint. Heat to boiling point and dissolve in one package Jello. When it begins to harden add one cup of blackberries (the rest to be used for a pie) and hickory nut meats. Serve with whipped cream.

Baked Rhubarb and Prunes—Wash one-half pound of prunes, add water in a sauce pan and add one bunch of rhubarb cut in small pieces

Apple and Walnut Pie—Three-fourths cup water, one-half cup sugar, four apples, dates, one-half cup walnut meats, two tablespoons lemon juice, one teaspoon butter.

Boil water and sugar three minutes. Wipe, pare and cut apples in eighths, remove core and cook a few at a time in the syrup until clear. Wash, remove stones and cut dates in strips; there should be two-thirds cupful. Line pie plate with plain paste, cover with half the apples, sprinkle with half the nut meats out in pieces and half the dates. Cover with remaining apples, nuts and dot on the butter and any of the remaining syrup. Cover with pastry and bake in moderate oven 45 minutes.

Fragrant Coffee
Our special blend served steaming hot—rich cream—plenty of sugar.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am seventeen and I care for a young man of twenty-three. He has often told me that he loves me. I do not go out with him.

Do you think he loves me? Mother does not allow me to care for him although I do not talk to her about him. What shall I do?

ANXIOUS WAITING
The young man does not love you seriously or he would want to take you places. You think it would be better for you to talk frankly to your mother about him. The more you keep your love to yourself, the deeper it will grow, which is not a good thing for a girl of seventeen.

You need experience and variety before you can choose wisely. Be wise little girl now and postpone your thoughts of love until you are in your twenties. You can do this if you make the thought of the young man and busy yourself with something.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What would be appropriate for a three-course June wedding supper for people of moderate means? If more convenient to serve two courses, what should be served?

Would it be necessary for printed invitations when only immediate relatives are to be present?

KITTY.
A three-course supper is not at all necessary. If you want something simple and yet sufficient, serve chicken salad, rolls and olives for the first course, and ice-cream, cake and coffee and nuts for the second.

Printed invitations are not necessary. Better write notes or invite your guests verbally.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl of nineteen and was keeping company with a young man twenty-four years old. All at once he left town and I have not heard from him. If he ever writes to me should I answer? LOVE BELL.

Yes, answer the letter if it will give you pleasure to do so. Let him write first.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty years of age. I have kept steady company with a few young men, but have not for the last year. I just go with one and then another. I have begun to lose interest in life and my young friends and it seems as though they have lost interest in me.

Some of my friends think I get angry at them when I am not. I am not a girl who ferrets her way in. I always try to treat everyone the same, but I guess I fail to some times.

Do you think it natural for me to lose interest in my friends since I am older now? I have had two chances to become engaged, but I wanted to be sure they were right and so I did not accept.

A NICE GIRL. You seem to have too much time to think about and analyze things. You need to be so deeply interested in some book that you will forget about boys for a while. You find it, you will not be interesting to other people.

If you are a working girl and do not enjoy your work, get another position. A change would probably do you good. See how efficient you can make yourself. Your efforts will absorb your time and as you work you will find your interest increasing.

It is not normal to lose interest in your friends. Perhaps you have grown away from them and need to meet new people. A change of position would help in this respect too.

NOTORIOUS WOMAN CROOK OF LONDON GETS PRISON TERM

ROBBERY, ARSON, BIGAMY, FRAUD CHARGED AGAINST HELEN SINCLAIR.

POSED IN SOCIETY She Owed Her Success in Crime to Refined, Fascinating Personality.

London—Robbery, arson, bigamy and fraud are crimes charged against Helen Sinclair, the most notorious woman crook in the United Kingdom has known since the days of "Polly the Pickpocket" and "Charlie May." Tracked down again through a maze of intrigues, she has just been sentenced to a Durham jail on charges of theft and of being a habitual criminal to the young penal institution to be followed by five more of ordinary imprisonment.

The story of her life under a dozen aliases makes a criminal record long enough for six ordinary crooks. A summary of her doings shows she covered nearly the whole kingdom having "worked" in Dublin, Edinburgh, Chatham, Glasgow, Durham and London, in which places she committed bigamy, arson, and was guilty of numerous acts of theft and fraudulent misrepresentation.

Trained and Fascinating. Of Irish birth, she owed her success in crime to her refined and magnetic personality, coupled with a fascination which caused the undying admiration of her admirers. One of her doings was to represent herself as an orphan with a large fortune. This she enabled her to get her way into the society of prominent and influential persons, whose power she used for her dishonest purposes. Her latest victim was a woman who had obtained a nurse's certificate, to get a position in a home, which she would rob after a week or two of employment. Presently, in order to conceal the theft, she would set fire to the home.

Set Fire to Room. While nursing a minister's daughter in Castle Douglas, Scotland, she stole $25 and some valuable articles and then fled the room where she had been nursing. A little later a hotel where she was staying near Edinburgh was gutted by fire. Afterward she sought to escape with a large sum of money stolen from the hotel, but the fire could not be proved against her.

She was dismissed from a position as a nurse, and then sought to leave with $200 worth of college linen in her luggage. A similar trick resulted in her being discharged from a position as a nurse, and then she had worked her falsely obtained nurse's certificate to get a job of nursing fever cases.

Victims of High Life. Her fraud victims included a baronet and a general, and she just missed obtaining a good position during the war. Under the name of Mary Leslie she was living in style in the west end of London and met in the society of the wealthy. Her interest in philanthropic and child welfare work she collected a large sum of money and discovered of this job slipped her appointment in the bid.

After this sort of activity she became too well known to the police to continue fashionable life in expensive hotels, so she took to visiting expensive apartments and then decamping with the more portable of her contents.

Helen is sentimental. Helen's sentimental and romantic career is quite as long and interesting as her criminal record. She first married when 17, a man dying in her mother's house in Edinburgh. What happened to their two children is not known. A year later she married a man named John, and captured an elderly local merchant, married him after a brief courtship, and left him four months later, next adventure was with an Edinburgh university student. He succumbed to her charms and about a year after she left the merchant they were married.

Assumes Role of Heiress. This romance was also a short one, for she soon quit him and returned to London, where she resumed the role of an heiress. Here she got "polly" with two men, and lived gayly on the money she got from them, completely forgetting her previous adventures. Her last matrimonial adventure was another university student, this time from Rochdale, whom she met on his vacation in Edinburgh. When they returned to his home she failed to meet the approval of his family and investigation of her past resulted in an arrest and bigamy prosecution.

Helen's career is closed for eight years. Her last day at the Durham jail pleased to the jury that she had been trying to live down her past, but her record was too much against her, and the woman, whom the judge described as one who "had evidently had great powers of fascination," will leave to discontinue her practice until she is 45 years old.

HORSES OBSOLETE AS MOTOR TRUCKS TAKE OVER HAULING

New York.—If Captain Nicholas Joseph, of the French army who in 1888 invented the self-propelled road vehicle, could visit the United States today, he would be astonished, perhaps to find the horse almost obsolete. The United States government on the eve of spending $33,000,000 for good roads and factories turning out automobiles at the rate of about 1,000 a day.

Motor truck traffic between industrial centers in Connecticut and New York city, Boston and Providence has reached such great proportions that state highway commissioners are urging shippers to register the maximum load on trucks to 25,000 pounds. According to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, utilization of the motor truck is enabling the railroads to "catch up" with traffic needs which mounted so enormously during the war.

Fifteen trucks with 201 demountable bodies in Cincinnati, according to P. W. Penn, secretary of the Cincinnati long freight hauls 66,000 railroad cars, replacing 115 teams of horses and mules and moving more than 7,000 tons of freight a day.

Indianapolis, he says, is the largest livestock motor trucking center in the world. Daily receipts in 1919 he said, were 6,800 or 2,000 more than the total carried by both steam and electric railroads.

WILL MAKE ISSUE SAYS MR. WILSON

President Insists on Declaring Treaty Paramount in Campaign.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1920, by Janesville Gazette.)

Washington, D. C., April 22.—President Wilson is to make the treaty of peace the dominant issue of the campaign. Whether a candidate or not, Mr. Wilson will make a fight to have the American people endorse his stand. For the present, therefore, the treaty will not go back to the senate unless, of course, there is some change of heart in the senate or some situation in Europe which alters the whole face of things.

Twenty Democratic Issue. But the overshadowing issue will be the treaty. A vote for the democratic ticket will be a vote for the peace treaty. That is the democratic stand. The democratic party will not, notwithstanding the protests of republican spokesmen, let the treaty go. That is what the democratic campaign orators are going to say, notwithstanding the protests of republican spokesmen that they wanted the treaty with reservations and Mr. Wilson blocked the way.

But while it would be the aim of the republican party to keep the American people concentrated on domestic issues, the democrats, led by the president, will blame all the economic and business ills of the country on the failure of the senate to ratify the treaty.

President Making Foreign Policy. In making the president is taking upon his own shoulders the determination of American foreign policy. American ambassadors abroad have been instructed to act as "observers" at all international conferences. Foreign governments will know that this is only a temporary expedient while the president threshes out the differences between two branches of the government which have co-ordinated jurisdiction over the making of peace treaties.

This decision has been reached by the president and his official family and is reflected in the point of view expressed by members of the cabinet.

Why I Won't Go Back. "Because the senate sent it back to the White House without action, and with the statement that the treaty could not pass," was the reply. "Now it is futile to think of negotiating a new treaty with powers who already have refused to ratify the old one."

The president worked out a treaty which embodied his concept of American ideals. It was approved by representatives of foreign governments after many of them had made concessions to the American viewpoint. Some of them would be willing to reach these concessions in a new negotiation. But the American people constitute the court of last resort. They will decide whether the treaty is American or not.

If they do not sustain the president or the democratic platform, the next administration will have to make a separate peace, as well as straightening out the mix-up in foreign relations brought about by the failure of the treaty negotiators. Versailles to be approved by the senate.

Platform to Be Wilson's

Therefore, the White House will strive to see that the democratic national convention adopts a platform embodying the president's ideas. The latest returns from Nebraska, which would seem to indicate the defeat of William Jennings Bryan as a delegate, means the vindication of Senator Hitchcock, who has reflected the president's viewpoint in the contest. Moreover, the reports from Georgia, indicating the success of Attorney General Palmer, suggest that the White House as another sign of the continued supremacy of the Wilson ideals in the ranks of the democratic voters.

The treaty may seem a dead issue, but it is to be revived by the democrats as the paramount question of the campaign. Unless the senate ratifies the treaty, the democratic party will have no chance of winning the election. The treaty will remain in the hands of the executive while he awaits the wish of the American people as expressed at the polls.

Democrats Will Make It Issue

To the argument that it will be difficult to tell what the people are voting on because of the complexity of issues on domestic affairs, members of the cabinet say everything else will be subordinated to the treaty and the result will be accepted as an irrevocable mandate from the people on the part itself. These are bold tactics but they accord with Mr. Wilson's conception of constitutional government. He has selected for four years and given charge of the foreign relations of the country. He was sustained throughout the war by the people. He is now making a treaty believing that the people, having credited him with an insight into their wishes during the war, would trust him still further.

Choosing Sides Now. The senate has rejected his work at Versailles. Does the American electorate side with the senate or with the president? If they elect a republican president, Mr. Wilson will retire gracefully from the scene and hand the job of government to a republican administration. If they elect a democratic president, Mr. Wilson will remain. By next November the American people will have sustained or repudiated their representative, and judging by the growing dissatisfaction in England with the character of the peace treaty, there may be a general election over there, too.

RASPBERRIES, BLACKBERRIES, AND DEWBERRIES.

Direction for Location in Garden, Preparation of Soil, Setting of Plants, Care of Patch, Protection from Disease, Propagating and Harvesting.

(Written for the United States School Garden Army.)

Time of planting—March and April. Location in the garden.—The plants do well in a cool shady location. The garden. They could be planted next to the fence, or in corners not used for the growing of vegetable crops.

Preparation of the soil.—Like strawberries these fruits grow best in well drained, carefully prepared garden soil.

Setting the plants.—The rows should be 4 feet apart, and the plants placed 3 feet apart in the rows. The plants "grow rapidly and would soon be placed closer together. The holes should be large enough to spread the roots out well and should contain rich mellow soil to induce the growth of the roots. Any bruised section of the root should be cut off as nearly horizontal as possible with a sharp knife. The plants should be set 2 to 4 inches deeper than they had previously been. The soil should be pressed firmly about the roots. The plants should be watered when they are set. The hole is completely filled.

Care of the patch.—The patch should be kept free of weeds. Shoots called suckers, which sprout from the roots of red raspberries and blackberries, must be kept under control, or the patch will in time become a dense thicket and the fruit will decrease in quantity and quality. The rows will be kept 3 to 16 inches apart. The patch should receive a light application of stable manure or commercial fertilizer in the fall. It is not to be fertilized immediately after the fruit is gathered. The canes that have borne fruit should be cut off and burned. These old canes are of no value to the plant and are likely to harbor insects and diseases. The canes are cut out and the strong ones are cut back to 4 feet. The tops of the summer black raspberries are pruned as follows: The tops of the new canes are cut back 2 inches when the canes are 2 to 3 inches high. When the canes are 4 to 5 inches high, they are cut back to 1 foot. A branched cane will produce more fruit than a straight cane. Since all the canes are cut back to the same height at the same time the patch must be kept

SAMSON AT MILTON TODAY; NINE PLAYS WINNIPEG TOMORROW

Following to repeat their victory of Wednesday afternoon, Samson Tractor baseball team will journey to Milton today to play the Milton college nine. The sudden drop in temperature, however, may interfere with plans, although the local boys are anxious to take to the diamonds as soon as they are ready for the big game tomorrow at Whitewater against the Winnipeg team of the Northern League.

Tomorrow is the real opening of the season. Samson's playing of Wednesday shows that the big farm implement plant has a nine of good quality. It is desired by the support of every fan in town. As a suggestion, it would be a good idea if a number of you fellows get together and hire a bus to take you to Whitewater to root for the team tomorrow. If you are lucky enough to have an auto in these days of it, it is a good fellow and invite your friends to go along with you to the game. Give the players a rousing send-off in the first game of importance.

Then don't forget the game with the Fyott foundry at Chicago on Sunday afternoon. Quite a few are planning to make the day a holiday and go down to the Windy City. There is a train on the Northwestern leaving here at 9:22 in the morning, arriving at Chicago at noon. Returning, there is one at 8:30 p. m.—that is, if the game is over soon enough—arriving here at a little after 8 o'clock. But if the game drags out there is a rattler at 8:00 that rolls into Janesville at 11:10.

Seriousness of Timber Situation Is Emphasized

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
 Washington, April 23.—Col. William H. Greely, chief forester of the United States, in a statement today, warns the country of the seriousness of its timber situation. He called attention to the heavy increase in pulp wood imported from Canada last year over 1918, and recommended that the system of conservation used in France be adopted in America.

CHI TEAMS WIN; BABE RUTH HURT

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
 Emperor Grover Alexander was found for five hits up to the seventh inning by the Reds and a 3-3 tie resulted and held until the eleventh inning when Barber smashed over a three-bagger that won the game, 4-3. The support given Alec was great. Reuther twirled for the champions.

Out of sight of their famous church steeples, the Dodgers failed to hold the lead yesterday and lost to Philadelphia, 4 to 3, the Phillies scoring two in the eighth on a rally by Bancroft, Williams, Stengel and J. Miller.

Rain interfered with the rest of the games.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.
 The Detroit Tigers have a new trainer. They found him yesterday in the White Sox when they came home after five defeats and suffered a sixth, 8 to 2. Red Faber covered the mound for nine whole innings for the Sox, the first time in over a year, and 26,000 fans saw him do it. A scolding party was held by the Indians at St. Louis and the final score was 11-3. Four Brown pitchers were knocked out of the box.

Did Ruth break loose to make the Yankees beat the Athletics, 3-0? Nope, and worse than that he was badly hurt before the game, putting a cartilage out of place, and after striking out in the first, was taken off the field in great pain. New York started with a six run lead.

The Senators celebrated homecoming yesterday with a victory over the Red Sox, 8-5, with Vice-President Marshall tossing the first ball and Secretary Daniels in center field helping raise the flag. Washington overtook a five run lead and won.

Home-Made Preserves

By Belle Case Harrington
In making money, it is a good rule to remember that the opportunities lie in staple articles. Novel ideas, however fascinating, are always risky. Remember, then, that the thing which is in demand is the thing which has money in it, though it may not be new.

Rightly or wrongly, nearly every housekeeper has the idea that home-made preserves are purer than those made by large manufacturers. Housewives prefer sugar to sweetening mixtures. They like to think that there has been no preservative used. Pure home-made preserves, therefore, have a sure demand. The work in such a plan then, is to have it generally known that you make such preserves and to find the people who want them.

Spring is not too early to begin preparations. Strawberries come early in the year. To make full advantage of preserving time, all preparations must be made in advance. For this reason, labels for strawberry jam, marmalade and paraffin laid in.

Furthermore, to take full advantage of the market, it is well to know what demand you will find. Do not wait until the season comes to sell your goods. Sell them in advance. If you can find fifty people to agree to buy jars of strawberry jam, then take an undertaking to make at least 500, knowing that the profit on the 250 ordered will more than clear the delay in getting the other 250. But you make 500 jars, without any advance orders, the money invested might return so slowly that you could not subvert the chance to put later berries. If, on the other hand, you make only a few jars, fifty or so, and they should sell quickly, then the season for the other 250 would go by and the chance be lost. Go out and solicit the business in advance, on the understanding that the preserves will be up to the standard you claim. It would not be difficult to clear 15 cents on a pint jar, making $75 on 500 jars and, if the jars are turned out in our times, in the season. An addition of $300 to pin-money, in a summer, would help many a girl.

Every Day Science
for Boy Mechanics

Auto and Marine Engines.

Grant M. Hyde
"Oh, can't we do something with that old Ford? Couldn't I take the engine out and fix it for a motor boat?"

"I reckon not, son. An automobile engine hasn't got sufficient power at low speeds, and it would have to be geared up high to develop power enough for motor boat. For another thing, it wouldn't stand the strain, when so geared, because the steady grind of a propeller thrusting against the friction of water on all sides of the boat is heavier work than driving a car."

"Marine engines, for the reason, are two-cycle engines, while automobile engines are of the four-cycle pattern. This means, in short, that the explosion which drives the piston comes only in every two piston strokes of a marine engine, once in every four piston strokes of an automobile engine."

"Probably you know how an automobile works. First, the piston moves down, with the intake valves open, sucking the air and gas in. Second, the valves close and the piston comes up, compressing the gas, which is fired by a spark of electricity from the spark plug. Just as the piston reaches the top, the piston is driven down by the explosion and it is this stroke which gives power. Third, the piston comes up again, the exhaust valves open, emptying the cylinder of the burnt-out gases. As the piston comes down, it draws in a fresh charge of air and gas. In an auto needs several cylinders to get smooth running."

In the two-cycle marine engine, most of this complicated valve mechanism is left out. There are valve ports in the side of the cylinder, which open as the piston moves by, and the chance be lost. Go out and solicit the business in advance, on the understanding that the preserves will be up to the standard you claim. It would not be difficult to clear 15 cents on a pint jar, making $75 on 500 jars and, if the jars are turned out in our times, in the season. DOUBLE-BREASTED

EVEN PICKLES GET INTO PRICE INQUIRYProfiteers in Anything From Canaries to Rouge Are Watched.

New York—A. W. Riley, chief of the "Flying Squadron" of the Department of Justice, whose campaign against profiteers with fines ranging from $50 to $2,500 and imprisonment from one day to two years, has uncovered a number of surprising commodities for which dealers are said to be asking exorbitant prices. Corn, most everything from pickles to whisky are being reported to Mr. Riley by New York consumers. One man who had paid $1.15 to a restaurateur for a tiny steak and six small pieces of French fried potatoes, didn't stop to eat them but standing at his check, took a newspaper he had been reading, wrapped up his meal and brought it to the federal prosecutor.

Some of the letters of complaint were amusing, others pathetic. One showed the seriousness of the present state of high prices. One indignant citizen wrote: "You ought to investigate a fish market in Brooklyn. He's a modern Jesse James. What do you think of 50 cents a pound for salmon and 60 cents for sea bass?"

The chief of the "Flying Squadron" has received complaints of such examples of alleged profiteering as follows:

Canary Birds High Priced
Drug store, whisky at $5 a pint and $2 more for doctor's prescription; canary birds $20 to $25 and $2 to $3 for a cage; lemonade, served at a cost of 10 cents and sold to have been "weak" $1 a glass; rouge $1 to $3 a box for "imported" brands that fish during lent rose from 20 cents to $1 a pound in some New York markets; prunes, three for 10 cents in a popular restaurant; peanuts, anthracite as "olive oil," $4 a quart; anthracite as $15 instead of $5.50 a ton in New York. N. Y., because the miners were granted a wage increase of 50 cents a ton.

Pickles in It, Too
Consumers complain to Mr. Riley that they have to pay 50 cents a pound for the same brands of coffee before the war, and that wholesalers paid 11 cents a pound for some of these coffees three years ago and are now paying 15 cents. Milk they charge costs 10 cents a glass in restaurants which buy it for 12 cents a quart; that they have to pay 35 cents for linen collars costing at wholesale $2.40 a dozen; pickles cost 6 cents each; cabbage 40 cents a head; 75 cents a bunch for asparagus and 35 cents a head for lettuce.

Looks at Next Store
A young woman protested after having paid $3 for a bag at a department store "bargain sale" which, she discovered later, cost 75 cents to manufacture. She said that many big business houses were not selling with 100 percent profit but were making, in some cases, 150 to 200 percent. She suggested a "remedy" as follows:

"I don't buy anything in the first store you visit. Ask the price, and if it seems at all excessive, you say you will not pay it and walk out for less. At any rate these profiteers need to know that the public is wise to them. If tremendous volume of business to buy would make such merchants realize that they must stop overcharging if they would not precipitate a general business boycott."

Easy to Get Price
One convicted profiteer blamed the public for much of the high prices. "It's so easy to get what you ask for," the merchant confided to the chief investigator, "that few business men can resist the temptation to raise prices. If I put two garments in my store window of exactly the same cut and materials but with a $50 tag on one and a $55 tag on the other, most persons would buy the higher-priced one. It's a strange freak of human nature. People nowadays don't seem to concern themselves any more about what a thing costs."

Absent Minded
The Chinese must be the most absent minded people in the world. They invented more things than any other race of people—and then went and forgot them. A few inventions claimed as originally Chinese are: Gunpowder, the telephone, silk, coal, paper money, cards, dominoes, chop suey, Chinese restaurants, rats, birds' nest soup and long finger nails.

Speed in Japan
In Japan, auto speed limits depend on the width of the road. Streets over 36 feet wide allow 15 miles an hour.

College Girl Burned
In Chemistry Explosion
Beloit, April 23.—While experimenting in the college chemical laboratory, Katherine Moore, daughter of the Rev. H. L. Moore, a former pastor of the Presbyterian church at Beloit, was severely burned in an explosion. Sulfuric acid was thrown into her hair and on her neck. She is not dangerously injured.
